

FT. TOTEN SHOCKED BY "SASSY" RECRUIT

Military Reservation In Turmoil When He Refuses to Turn Down Collar.

GETS FOUR MONTHS FOR PEEVISHNESS

Meanwhile All Again Is Serene As the Big Guns Guard New York Harbor.

Fort Totten, New York, has again settled down to the humdrum business of protecting the metropolis. Recruit John Zoldesky is in the "cooler" for four months.

All of which would naturally give the inference that there has been a time when Fort Totten was a bit flustered to say the least, and Recruit John Zoldesky was not so closely confined. This inference would be correct. It was and he was.

The 11th Company of Coast Artillery is a gallant band of machinists, engineers, officers, and electricians, all of whom know how to point and shoot great guns in a manner that makes various foreign potentates think twice before they complete their plans for taking New York. And the 11th Company of Coast Artillery is the outfit with which Recruit John Zoldesky made his debut in the military service, a debut that was something of a splash.

Recruit John Zoldesky, while not necessarily a rough person, had difficulty in co-ordinating his emotions with the routine prescribed by the regulations, and in an evil moment fell afoul of some rule which rendered him unpopular with the powers that were—and still are—in control of things. All of which peeved Recruit Zoldesky.

Peevishness Not an Offense.

There is not the least thing in the regulations to prevent a man from being peevish, not a paragraph or a sentence or a word—that is nothing except the sixty-second article of war. However, Recruit Zoldesky was not satisfied with simply having his feelings hurt. He brooded over it and in a moment of extreme anger turned his shirt collar up under the collar of his blouse.

That is when Fort Totten became what the poets and all the high priced literati would call agog. From the post commander to the latest lance corporal, to say nothing of the privates and second lieutenants, everyone on the reservation was put out. But Recruit John Zoldesky paid no heed. His dander was up and, by heck, he didn't care who did, so he didn't. He'd been done dirt, he had.

So shocked and grieved were the members of the 11th Company of Coast Artillery that none of them could bring themselves to call the offensive Zoldesky's attention to his disgrace. He was bringing on the most honorable artillery corps.

It was Sergeant Edward S. Dissinger of the Eighty-second Company who braced himself for the ordeal and ordered Zoldesky sternly to turn his shirt collar down in accordance with regulations made and provided.

The Sergeant Quivered. All Fort Totten peered through its fingers to see what would happen. It saw the brave sergeant quiver as though struck and turning on his heel—all Coast Artillery sergeants turn on their heel—walk hurriedly to his quarters.

Zoldesky had not struck him. There are some lengths to which even he would not go. But to quiver the third specification of the charges. Sergeant Dissinger fled immediately. He did not in an insolent and unbecoming manner. "I'm not drilling now and I don't have to put it down," or words to that effect.

He—Zoldesky—would not "put it down," which everyone knows was rank insubordination even if there had not been those "words to that effect."

That settled it. The old, overworked sixty-second article of war was invoked and like the willing, versatile, indefatigable "work" it is, found paragraphs to cover the offense. Under its provisions, Recruit John Zoldesky was held before a court-martial and though he pleaded not guilty to the three specifications, he was "soaked" four months in the cooler.

That's where he is now and Fort Totten, as hinted in the first paragraph, has resumed its old-time task of guarding the approaches to New York.

UNCLE SAM PRINTS TWENTY COOK BOOKS

Four Filled With Good Recipes, 16 Are Treatises on Food Values.

Uncle Sam has a series of no less than twenty cook books. That is, they are not called cook books officially, but they have such a close relation to the cuisine as to be entitled to consideration as works on the high and noble art of cookery.

Attention has been drawn to these works, which have been issued under the practical eye of Secretary Wilson, largely by the work on "The Economical Use of Meat in the Home." But there are many others. Four of them are recommended by the department as forming "a set which would be useful to every housekeeper." They include besides the pamphlet on meat the following: "Preparation of Vegetables for the Table," "Care of Food in the Home," and "Bread and Bread Making."

The instructions contained in these pamphlets could be supplemented by the information in sixteen other pamphlets of the department treating on the relative value of fish, milk, sugar, eggs, poultry, beans, peas, fruit, potatoes, and other root crops, corn and corn products, and meat, as food, and the preserving and canning of fruits and vegetables.

NEBRASKANS TO MEET.

Gas will be one of the subjects discussed Wednesday night at a meeting of the Nebraska State Association at 1467 street northwest. Representative George W. Norris will preside. Senator Burkett will discuss "The Schoolmaster in Politics." There will be music, dancing, and refreshments.

"FREDDIE" GEBHARD IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Wife Hurries From Washington to Bedside of Former Racing Man.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Mrs. Frederick Gebhard arrived today from Washington and hurried to the bedside of her husband, Frederick Gebhard, at one time the best known spender in Gotham, who is in a critical condition from pneumonia at his hotel in East Thirty-second street.

Gebhard's physicians said today he had spent an easy night and was much better, but that he was still in a serious condition.

"Freddie" Gebhard's name is known on both sides of the globe. As a glided youth, with $100,000 a year, he paid court to Mrs. Langtry, the "Jersey Lilly." The noted actress, in the heyday of her beauty, had just arrived from Europe, where she had captivated the Prince of Wales, now King Edward. Gebhard and Mrs. Langtry bought adjoining ranches in the West and their friendship continued for several years.

Society gossiped when Gebhard married Miss Louise Hollingsworth Morris, of Baltimore, in 1894. A few years later they were divorced, and Gebhard again became a man about town, spending money like a prince. He maintained one of the most expensive racing stables in America for years.

Four years ago Gebhard married Miss Marie Wilson, one of the original Florida sex-tic girls, but the marriage was kept secret for a year.

By degrees his fortune waned and his sister, Mrs. Frederick Nielsen, mother-in-law of Reginald Vanderbilt, advanced him the money to pay his debts. Then she obtained a judgment against him for $55,000, and thus tied his estate into a trust fund, for his own benefit.

Of late Gebhard has been a wine agent. He is a member of the Union, Racquette, Metropolitan, Knickerbocker, Coking, Tuxedo, and New York Yacht Clubs.

Wrong Body Placed Under Kenton Shaft

TOLEDO, April 22.—That the huge monument erected by the State of Ohio in Oakdale Cemetery at Urbana, bearing upon its face the name of Simon Kenton, pioneer Indian fighter, who many times made his headquarters at the old Detroit fort, does not cover the grave of Kenton at all, was made known for the first time by Thomas Wickham, aged eighty, pioneer resident of Logan county, Ohio.

When Kenton died, April 29, 1836, in Logan county, his body was buried on the Wickham farm, east of Bellefontaine. Long after Kenton had been buried the citizens of Urbana laid claim to the body of the famous man, because he resided there in his earlier days and they obtained the passage of an act of the Legislature ordering the removal of his remains to the Oakdale Cemetery, near Urbana.

The people of Logan county protested, but in vain. The remains of Kenton were exhumed. On the day that the body was removed from the Wickham place Thomas Wickham was away from home. When he returned he discovered that the wrong grave had been opened and that the diggers, instead of lifting the remains of General Kenton, had taken up the body of a pioneer named James Owens.

"PLEADS" ON HIS KNEES.

ATLANTIC CITY, April 22.—Taking the order to "plead," John J. McBride, a chauffeur, accused of speeding, dropped on his knees. The man explained his entire lack of composure in court proceedings, his never having been arrested before. He was let off with a light fine.

BITTER FIGHT ON IN HYATTSVILLE

Lively Time Expected At Municipal Election on May 2.

HYATTSVILLE, Md., April 22.—A bitter municipal fight is being waged here. On May 2 the citizens of this town elect a mayor and four councilmen, and the many candidates in the field have made the fight one of the most interesting in the history of the town, and in the last week personalities have been injected into the contest and feelings are likely to explode at any time.

The present mayor, William P. Magruder, is out for re-election and is being opposed by Thomas E. Latimer. Mr. Magruder was elected last year by a very close vote, his opponent being John Falter.

In the First ward John A. Johnson again will make an attempt to become a town father, his opponent being William A. Dorr. It is long time that Mr. Johnson has been thinking of entering the field.

In the Second ward Councilman William A. Brooks is being opposed for re-election by Edwin A. Devlin. Mr. Devlin, who is a brother of Third Baseball Devlin of the New York Giants, was formerly a member of the council. In this ward there is an unexplored year of one year to be filled due to the removal of Harry W. Shepherd from the ward. Clarence Wilson is out for this berth and has no opposition.

In the Third ward Councilman J. Frank Rushe has to fight E. A. Fuller, editor of the Hyattsville Independent, in order to be re-elected.

William A. Shepherd is candidate for town treasurer and has no opposition. The following members of the council hold over: Herman Burgess, First ward, and Stephen J. Kelly, Second ward.

DOHERTY ATTACKS PINCHOT'S RECORD

ST. LOUIS, April 22.—Characterizing Gifford Pinchot as "the man who has done more to prevent the development of waterpower than any other man," Henry L. Doherty, of New York, at a meeting of the League of Electrical Interests, yesterday savagely attacked the former chief forester.

"I regret," said Mr. Doherty, "to refer to Mr. Pinchot personally, and I do so only to show how men of intelligence can fall into popular error due to the public's readiness to lend an ear to any charge of usurpation on the part of the wealthy."

HOW I MADE MY HAIR GROW

Woman With Marvelously Beautiful Hair Gives Simple Home Prescription Which She Used With Most Remarkable Results.

I was greatly troubled with dandruff and falling hair. I tried many advertised hair preparations and various prescriptions, but they all signally failed; many of them made my hair greasy, so it was impossible to comb it or do it up properly. I think that many of the things I tried were positively injurious, and from my own experience I cannot too strongly caution you against using preparations containing wood alcohol and other poisonous substances. I believe they injure the roots of the hair. After long list of failures I finally found a simple prescription which I used with most remarkable results, and I can unhesitatingly state that it is beyond doubt the most wonderful thing for the hair I have ever seen. Many of my friends have also used it and obtained wonderful effects therefrom. It not only is a powerful stimulant to the growth of the hair, and for restoring gray hair to its natural color, but it is equally good for removing dandruff, giving the hair life and brilliancy, etc., and for the purpose of keeping the scalp in first-class condition; it also makes the hair much easier to comb and arrange in new forms. I have a friend who used it two months, and during that time it not only stopped the falling of his hair and wonderfully increased its growth, but it practically restored all his gray hair to its natural color. You can obtain the ingredients for making this wonderful preparation from almost any druggist. The prescription is as follows:

Bay rum, 4 ozs.; Menthol crystals, one-half drachm; Lavone de Composee, 2 ozs.; To-Kalon perfume, 1 to 2 teaspoonfuls.

Apply night and morning; rub thoroughly into the scalp.

Go to your druggist and ask for an eight-ounce bottle containing six ounces of bay rum; also one-half drachm of Menthol crystals, and for a two-ounce bottle of Lavone de Composee. Mix the ingredients yourself in your own home. Add the Menthol crystals to the bay rum and then pour Lavone de Composee, and add the To-Kalon perfume. Let it stand for one-half hour and it is ready for use.

The People's Pharmacy, Seventh street and Massachusetts avenue, the well-known and popular druggists of this city, have filled this formula for many of their patrons, and state that the satisfaction from its use is so great that they have found it necessary to make special provision to fill the prescriptions promptly and carefully.
